1. MODEL OVERVIEW & AUSTRALIAN MARKET NOTES

The Ford Cortina held a distinguished two-decade tenure in Australia, evolving from a nimble Br itish compact into a uniquely Australian six-cylinder muscle sedan. Assembled locally from 1962 (Mk1 and Mk2), the Cortina achieved legendary status when the Bob Jane / Harry Firth Cortina G T500 won the 1965 Armstrong 500 at Mount Panorama, Bathurst. In 1971, Ford Australia undertook a daring local engineering feat with the TC and TD Cortina: modifying the British 'Coke-bottle' body with an elongated front structure to accommodate Ford Australia's heavy 200ci (3.3L) and 250ci (4.1L) Falcon inline-six engines. The European-styled TE (1977) and TF (1980) brought cri sp lines, Ghia luxury, and the sporty X-Pack before being succeeded by the Mazda-based Telstar in 1982.

The 6-cylinder Cortina TC/TD was a uniquely Australian phenomenon. Packing the Falcon's big 250 ci (4.1L) engine into a lightweight 1,100 kg body gave it exceptional straight-line acceleratio n, running 0-100 km/h in 8.5 seconds?faster than many contemporary V8s. Local engineers develop ed heavier front springs, upgraded disc brakes, and reinforced front crossmembers to handle Aus tralian conditions.
