1. MODEL OVERVIEW & AUSTRALIAN MARKET NOTES

The Ford Territory was the first and only sports utility vehicle (SUV) designed, engineered, an d manufactured in Australia. Developed under the code-name 'E265' at a cost of $500 million, th e Territory debuted in April 2004 and won the prestigious 2004 Wheels Car of the Year award. Av ailable in 5- and 7-seat configurations, in rear-wheel drive and permanent all-wheel drive, the Territory combined car-like handling, Virtual Pivot Control front suspension, and generous int erior packaging, spanning SX, SY, and SZ series with Barra I6, Barra Turbo, and 2.7L V6 turbo-d iesel engines.

Conceived under Ford Australia president Geoff Polites as Australian families began migrating f rom traditional large station wagons to high-riding SUVs, the Territory was engineered specific ally for Australian family road trips, outback gravel touring, and boat towing. It featured 30 interior storage compartments, an independently opening tailgate glass window, and standard ele ctronic stability control (ESC)?the first Australian-built car with standard ESC. Over 178,000 Territory SUVs were manufactured at Broadmeadows before local production concluded in October 2 016.
