1. MODEL OVERVIEW & AUSTRALIAN MARKET NOTES

The Mitsubishi 380 was the final passenger car designed, engineered, and manufactured by Mitsub ishi Motors Australia at its Tonsley Park plant in Adelaide. Backed by a $600-million investmen t and over 2.4 million kilometres of Australian testing, the 380 was powered by a punchy 3.8-li tre 6G75 V6 with 175kW and 343Nm, praised by critics for its exceptionally stiff body structure and European-grade chassis dynamics.

Launched in October 2005 to replace the Magna and Verada, the 380 went toe-to-toe with the Hold en Commodore and Ford Falcon. While acclaimed by Wheels and Motor for chassis rigidity and refi ned ride quality, intense fleet competition and soaring fuel prices hampered sales volumes. Ser ies II and III introduced revised equipment and competitive pricing. The final Mitsubishi 380 r olled off the Tonsley Park production line on 27 March 2008, bringing to an end 43 years of veh icle assembly at the Adelaide factory.
